Hongkong, October 1st, 1877:

FREQUENT references are made to the curious memorials which appear in the Peking Gaby the North China Herald. The last batch of a small local charitable asylum, such as in Western countries would not travel further !than the columns of the local journal, is the market has been fairly active during the been handed over to the proper Board for is a steady demand for common and low flavory consideration and report. Possibly this is good policy. If the names of the subscribers | kets. The value of fair to medium kinds is fally to home charities were handed over to an i official board to report upon no doubt the subscription lists would show a large augmentation of their present value. There is also to the official conduct of various servants of His Celestial Majesty, and these exemplify. the "having a name to live and being dead," Chinese officialdom. While heavy punishin others only nominal penalties are inflicted on the culprits. Thus, the late Acting Governor-General of Yunnan and Kweichow, for an error in an expose of the shortcomings of one of his subordinates, is to be mulcted in for want of straightforwardness in a report,

Audit Board, to secure the exact fulfilment of the letter of official regulations in al matters relating to the six administrative Boards. Mulcts of salary (which is never drawn), and the withdrawal of stops of honorary rank (which are conferred with a special view to the contingency), are the penalties forming the result of their labours." If a Governor-General exhibits a want of straightforwardness is his degradation by one step of honorary rank sufficient punishment?. Possibly by a little more want of straightforwardness he may succeed in recovering his lost honour. Finesse is evidently the great requisite to success in the Chinese civil and military service. An official who possesses this in a high degree may rest assured of his well-being. Take the following example: - "The Governor of Yunnan memorializes forwarding a statement presented by the ex-General-in-chief, Yang Yu-k'o, narrating the particulars of the benefactions he had conferred upon the population of the western section of Yannan, from whence the majority of the 'braves' had been drawn with whose aid he had re-captured Ta-li Fu and the other cities held by the Mahomedan insurgents since the outbreak in 1856. has now converted his late residence at Ta-li Fu into a College for the benefit of the endowed with rents derived from land and

In the Guzetic of Saturday is published despatch from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in reply to one by Governor Hennessy. relating to the holders of foreign medical diplomas in this Colony. Earl Cornarvon says :- "It appears to me that in the absence of any special enactment regulating the qualifications of modical practitioners, which the circumstances of the colony have not been deemed to require, there is no direct restriction on the practice of medicine within the colony by persons purporting to hold foreign diplomas. An enclosure from the Board Trade states that the only occasion on which the question of the recognition by that Board of foreign medical diplomas arises is when a foreign surgeon is appointed to the medical care of a foreign passenger vessel, under section 42 of the Passengers Act, 1855. In such cases the emigration officer is required to satisfy himself that the candidate is authorised by law to practise as a physician, surgeon, or apothecary, in the country to which the ship may belong.

By the arrival of the steamship Yesso (Captain S. Ashton) on Saturday morning, we gather particulars of a typhoon which occurred in the Haitan Straits. THE "SHAH" AND THE "HUASCAR. under date July 5th :- " A revolution broke out very eleverly and took possession of the most powerful gamboat that the Government possesses. With this vessel they left for Iquique, but stopped to take coal at Pisagua, which port they took by assault, after a brief skirmish with the authorities, sixpeople, including the Commissario. being killed and many wounded. The rebels also stopped the English steamers John Elder and Santa Rosa on the high seas. The Government declared the Hugscar a rebel and a pirate. and authorized foreign Navies to capture herwherever and whenever she was met with. The English Admiral De Horsey, on board the new flagship Shah, immediately went in pursuit, and came across the Huascur in a port called Ilo, some 100 miles north of Louique. He sent a boat on board to summon the Hugsenr to surrender, which the latter refused to do, wheraupon the Shah opened fire, backed up by the Amethyst, A brisk engagement ensued, and in a few minutes the Huascar, would have sunk, but darkness came on, and the fight was suspended, and the Hauscar was allowed to escape during the night, though a vigilant watch was supposed to have been kept on board both English vessels. The Huascar immediately made for Iquique, and surrendered to the Government squadron then in the Bay, spreading the report that she had encountered the Shah and the Amethyst outside that the former had accidentally sunk the latter by an ill-directed. shot, and that afterwards the Huascar had put one of her big shot into the Shah below the water-mark, so she had sunk within ten minutes afterwards. This place is about, as the crow flies, 27 miles S.W. of Nikopol, on the Danube, and five miles east of the Vid, one of the largest of the tributaries that descend from the northern slopes of the Balkans to the Danube. According to Kanitz, a recent Austrian traveller, the town has a population of 1,627 Mahometan and 1,474 Christian families, comprising about 17,000 souls. There are eighteen mosques, nine minarets, and two churches—one named after Saints Cyril and Methedius, the apostles of Bulgaria, the other after St. Peter. Yet the French Consul Lejean disnisses it with the brief remark. "Ville agreable au hout de quelques heures l'en ai assez." Indece the time arrived, and perhaps it was not far dis-tant, England would not lose the opportunity.— almost the only object of interest in it is the hospital, which, like most other works of public usofulness or benevelence in these regions - roads, schools, orphanages, savings banks, &c.,-is a creation of Midhat Pacha while he was governor of the vilayet of the Danube some years ago. The physician or surgeon was a German. Bulgarians, Circassians, Tartars, gipsies used the hospital; the Turks seldom, and with the greatest unwillingness. At the time of Kanitz's visit. there were a normal school and eight Turkish elementary schools, which were attended by 1,654 boys and 110 girls, while five Bulgarian schools had 921 boys and 50 girls. The river on which Plevna stands is the Tusewica, which just below the town is joined by the stream from Griwica, and the united waters fall into the Vid, about seven miles lower down. The valley is cut through limestone formation; steep, rough cliffs rise precipitously on the northern side, but the banks on the southern side are less difficult. All the heights are covered with fruit trees and shrubs, which made Plevna a very pretty object when seen from a distance. It is worth noting, that most of the land all around is the proporty of Mussulman Bulgarians, descendants of reneto fall back upon Ostrizu. They are now con. gade ancestors. Here, as elsewhere, this prirangement does not tend to promote harmony Mr. William Ravenscroft has been appointed even among men of the same race.

The great gold mine of Los Cristales, at Canquenes, in Chili was abandoned at a time when the Chilians were slooting each other, and "An English Resident in Iquique" writes trying to overturn the Government. It then filled up with water, and an avalanche slid into about two months ago, and the robols out out and over it, and confounded all the geographers for forty years in regard to its whereabouts. It has now been found by three Englishmen, and will be worked again by English capital.

WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION: An Angle-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service

this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in cateriso. Euch and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. For practical purposes the arrangement of $5; or, with the Lists of Residents, Port Directhe work is so complete, that a reference to its tories, Maps, &c., at $3. pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Press Office, where it is published, or to the Europeans residing in China, and to the natives following Agents: thomselves it explains subjects fully with which MACAO. very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. "TAFPING THE TELEGRAPH." Reckoning on popular support in the invaded districts, Morgan, and his comrades entered Kentucky at the commencement of July, taking with them a portable electric battery, which was placed in charge of Mr. Ellsworth, a telegraphic operator. The use to which this battery was applied presents a perfectly new feature in warfare, showing how the operations of modern armies may be assisted by the inventions of science. The small town of Glasgow having been seized. Mr. Ellsworth took down the telegraphic wire, and connected it with his pocket instrument, so that he was enabled to intercept and read the messages passing between Nashville and Louisville-that is to say, between one Federal station and another. Mr. Ellsworth represented himself as the telegraphic operator at Louisville, and of course received a great deal of important information which was intended for very different recipients. In return, the Confederates sent messages of a nature to decrive and mislead the Union generals. At Lebanon, the same process (which was called "tapping the telegraph") was repeated, and Mr. Ellsworth despatched messages to General Boyle, commanding the he was in communication with Colonel Johnson, of the Federal garrison at Lebanon, then -a prisoner in Morgan's hands, replied without reserve.—" Cassell's History of the United

CURIOSITY REWARDED. We had heard much of the extreme beauty Shekunel, and I had a natural curiosity to get a glance at the inaccessible lady. Fortune [seemed to favour my wishes, for the Sheik informed me, with expressions of great grief, that his infaut child—the child of his old age and of his levely spouse-was dangerously ill, and as I had, the credit of being, and, indeed, bore the name of "El Hakeem el Keeber". She answered; but I said I could but imperfectly understand as she spoke Arabic, so I asked her to remove her veil. She resisted, when I observed that European physicians studied the diseases of childrenin the countenances of their mothers. I became peremptory, and at last she slowly raised her veil, when, instead of the angelic beauty I had expected, I was confronted with the face of a hideous hag, who said to me, "I am the old wife." The Sheik laughed. as, indeed, he had a right to do, and I could not but join in the laugh, for the trick had succeeded admirably .- Autobiographical Recollections of Sir John Bowring. --

The dresses of the men were much the same as in the last, but there were also a number of children bright likus, and with garlands of leaves and flowers. First of all, they formed into a long line; then, breaking the line, danced forward, ten or twelve at a time, for a few steps, bending down their bodies and spreading out their hands, as the little shoots from a wave run up on the beach. Then wave after wave rolled in, and then at the end of the long line ran round, first. a few at a time, some falling back again; then more and more, as the tide runs up on the shore-side of the reef, and nothing but a small island of coral is left. Meanwhile the guarrel between Becket and the King of England became the topic of the hour throughout Europe. Which was right and which was wrong, what the Pope would do or ought to do, and whether England would join Germany in the schism-these questions were the theme of perpetual discussions in council and conclave, were debated in universities, and were fought over at convent and castle dinner-tables. Opinions were so divided that, in a cause which concerned Heaven so nearly, people were looking for Heaven to give some sign. As facts were wanting, legend took the place of them, and stories began to spread, either at the time or immediately after, of direct and picturesque manifestations of grace which Vt. Macduff had been vouchsafed in Becket's favour. It was said that, when dining with Pope Alexander, he had twice unconsciously turned water into wine. At Pontigny he had been graciously visited by our Lady herself. He had left England ill-provided with clothes.
